Deputy State Auditor Vicky Young earns Certified Public Manager designation

RALEIGH _ Deputy State Auditor Vicky Young has been awarded the Certified Public Manager designation, completing a two-year program of study and job-related work under the direction of the North Carolina Office of State Personnel.

The certification, awarded in a ceremony at the North Carolina Museum of History, required 10 courses and a job-related project. Ms. Young's project involved setting up a mentoring program to help new auditors successfully complete their on-the-job training requirements.

Ms. Young has been with the Office of the State Auditor for nearly six years, serving over the last two years as a Deputy State Auditor responsible for administration. She previously worked for the Department of Administration and Department of Transportation..

"This is a tremendous achievement for anyone in management in State government," said State Auditor Ralph Campbell. "Vicky has shown the kind of dedication and commitment that our office and other State agencies must have if they are to perform effectively and efficiently. I am extremely proud of her accomplishment, as well as others in the Office of the State Auditor who have won this certification."

Ms. Young, a native of Birmingham, Ala., lives in Raleigh with her husband, Cy, and three children.
